The Light Crust Doughboys are on the air!

The history of the Grammy award winning Light Crust Doughboys covers more than seventy years of American music. In 1929, Texas fiddler Bob Wills formed "The Wills Fiddle Band". By 1931, the band landed a morning radio show sponsored by the makers of Light Crust Flour. The original Doughboys are credited with the creation of the western swing style of music, which blends a wide range of musical repertoire including country, blues, jazz, pop, gospel and more. By the 1940s, the Light Crust Doughboys' Show was broadcast on more than 170 radio stations. The words "The Light Crust Doughboys are on the air" are still used today to open every show.

Current members include Art Greenhaw, bass, guitar & vocals; Maurice Anderson, steel guitar; Dale Cook, drums and vocals; Jim Baker, fiddle & vocals; Kevin Bailey, guitar & vocals; and Teresa Anderson, vocals; with guest appearances by Doughboy legends Jerry Elliott & John Walden

The Light Crust Doughboys are considered the longest running country and western band in the world and one of the top historical bands of all time.
